Joseph H. Marshall, who lives at 417 East Thirty-fourth street, has got himself into a peck of trouble by becoming a surety on the bond of the Matt Taylor Paving Company. which is doing a lot of city work uptown, for the amount of $35,000.

He stated under oath May 20, before Comptroller Myers, that he was worth $98,000, and in the schedule of his prop-$98,000, and in the schedule of his property he designated five parcels of real estate, consisting of five lots in Crescent avenue. four lots in East Ninety-seventh street, thirty-seven lots at Whitestone, L. L. and houses and lots at 425 East One Hundred and Fifteenth street and 2345 Second avenue, to which he held the title.

Comptroller Myers learned a few days ago that Marshail had been examined in supplementary proceedings on a judgment against him for $190, in which he swears that he owned no property at all, and that sverything he had was in his wife's name.

The Comptroller inquired into the matter, and found that none of the property named by Siarshail stood in his own name, but that some of it was owned by Annie Marshail, and some by other parties.

"I could see the time on my dollar and a quarter clock by the light of the foul tip, and it lacked just 10 minutes of 2.

"I was a singer, and it was accompanied by the most blood-curdling clap of thunder I over heard. I thought for a moment that it might be the appliance of the cranks on the bleacheries. It shook the house and went "ratilety being" off down into the distance.

"Then game was called on account of rain, grees, for the water came down in large bucketfuls, and for ten minutes or so there was nobody at the bat.

"Then it began again and lightning played in and out of my window blinds, twined itself about the curtains, went up and down and across, and the darndest racket was kept up all the time.

"The thunder played a tattoo like ten thousand drummers, with an occasional b—b—bang! by snare drume, bass drums and cymbais all together.

"Mrs. Tutt sat up, too, and in the flashes of the lightning I could see her wild eyes and frightened face while the baby yelled like all possessed.

"I never heard so much noise in all my sweet existence."

SING SING, N. Y., June 14.—If it hadn't been for the revised rules of commutations and penalties drafted by Pardon Clerk Brown five years ago, "Honest John" O'Neil, boodle Alderman, might have stood on the portice of the prison this foreneon and said: "Thank God, I am free at last!" The poor old man is forced, however, to spend another Sabbath behind these grimy

He can thank Pardon Clerk Brown for it. This official introduced a clause in the revis-ion of the rules which says that where the expiration of the term on the reports for commutation under the statutes falls on Sunday the date of discharge must be fixed or the following Monday.

Warden Brush fought very strongly against the introduction of this clause, but t was of no avail. It had always been the custom where the sentence expired on Sunday or a holiday, to liberate the prisoner the preceding day. Warden Brush believes such ought to be the case now, and if he

Col. Dan Lamont and his Whitney-Elkins syndicate have just made another important move in their scheme to gobble up the New York surface railroads.

In other words, the little crosstawn road known as the Houston, West Street and Pavonia Ferry Railroad Company, whose capital stock is only $250,000, has obtained a lease for an indefinite period of the Breadway and Seventh Avenue Railroad Company, whose capital stock of $2,100,000.
